2010 Georgia Scholar Program

HOUSTON COUNTY, GA – Alysa Moore, Houston County High School student, was selected for the 2010 Georgia Scholar Program, which recognizes graduating seniors who exhibit excellence in all phases of school life and community activities. Alysa received a personal letter of congratulations from State Superintendent of Schools Kathy Cox and a special seal on her high school diploma.

Selection for this recognition is based on SAT scores, cumulative numeric average in core courses and a short essay. The program is coordinated by the Georgia Department of Education Office of Education Support and Improvement.

The purpose of the Georgia Scholar Program is to identify and recognize high school seniors who have achieved excellence in school and community life. The program is coordinated by the Georgia Department of Education Office of Student Learning and Assessment through local coordinators in each school system and private school in the state.
